Comments:

- ~Excellent variety of companies
- ~Everyone is fine to talk to but they don't seem to have any power in or knowledge of the company.
- ~This is an important experience in order to achieve our professional goals.
- ~More space in the aisle ways
- ~Better than last year – thank you
- ~There wasn't to many companies looking for interns, but if you are looking for a job it would be great.
- ~Could it be earlier because some students are interested in internships and many deadlines have already passed.
- ~A lot of the bigger corporate divisions (GE, Boeing...) choose their interns before the spring career fair.
- ~More local tech companies – Novell, Canopy Group, etc
- ~Good work! Keep it up!
- ~It is really hard to differentiate between different companies based on the engineers they want.
- ~I was very pleased to have 3 companies interested in power engineers.
- ~Firms seemed much more talkative and willing to answer questions as opposed to last year's career fair.
- ~Great exposure to employers
- ~Need more room to walk down the aisles
- ~I don't know if this is out of your control or not, but it seems like the selection of companies is small
- ~You should contact the USU Tech Commercialization office to see if they're interested in a booth next year. They could connect you to local tech start-ups.
- ~Place a garbage by the water tables
- ~Try to space companies out a little more, it gets a little cramped
- ~Couldn't pull up a list of employers on career services
- ~Very few companies are familiar with operations management and what these students have to offer them.
- ~Too informal to present any real jobs
- ~Invite USU departments that might have a need for tech hires
