To the Utah State University Community:

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act requires that colleges and universities report information about crime on and around campuses. It also requires the disclosure of certain security policy statements including sexual assault policies which assure basic victims' rights, the law enforcement authority of campus police, and where students should go to report crimes.

The Clery Report gives students, their parents, employees, and potential students and employees the opportunity to see the kinds of crimes and their frequency on the campus where they currently are or are interested in attending.

While any crime is of concern to us, we are proud of the low crime rate at Utah State University. We encourage all who come on campus to report suspicious persons or circumstances and to take the responsibility to keep personal belongings safe by keeping doors to cars and apartments locked, and by never leaving valuables unattended.

As a department we enjoy our associations with our campus constituents. We seek to work together to keep Utah State University a safe and peaceful place to work, study, and play.

Sincerely,

Steven J. Mecham
Utah State University Police Department

CRIME AWARENESS AND CAMPUS SECURITY AT UTAH STATE UNIVERSITY

Utah State University is a growing land grant university with approximately 19,000 students, faculty and staff. In addition, thousands of guests visit the campus for a variety of special events and activities. While the campus is a relatively safe place, it is subject to many of the same problems experienced in the community in which it is located.

CAMPUS LAW ENFORCEMENT

Utah State University has its own police department with full peace officer status to better serve the campus community. The Utah State University Police Department (USUPD) has a close working relationship with the Logan City Police Department and other law enforcement agencies throughout the State of Utah.

The primary objective of the USUPD is to provide a campus environment where students, faculty and staff feel safe to pursue the academic mission of the University. To achieve this objective the campus community must become involved in fighting crime.

To encourage involvement, USUPD has taken the following steps:

1. To reduce crime and provide immediate response to complaints or service calls, USUPD is staffed 24 hours every day with a trained dispatcher. The department also provides 24-hour patrol with its 11 full-time state certified police officers. A USU police officer responds to all reports of crime or suspicious activity and conducts follow-up investigations on all leads. The Logan City Fire Department and USUPD respond to reports of fire or medical emergencies on campus.

2. If a person is the victim of a crime or is aware of a crime and does not wish to contact the police, the person may report the incident to one or all of the following agencies:

- USU Counseling Center
- USU Affirmative Action Office
- The Office of Vice President for Student Services
- Any member of the housing professional staff, including the director and assistant director of USU Housing, any resident director, or any resident assistant
- Any dean's office
- Sexual Assault and Anti-Violence Information (SAAVI) Office

If the person does not want police action taken, the information will be given to the police for statistical purposes only.

3. The USU Police Department has a 911 emergency reporting service. In the event of an emergency you should dial 911 to report the incident. If you are on a campus phone your call will be received by the USU Police Department. If you are on a cell phone your call will be received by the Logan City Public Safety Dispatch Center who will forward the information to the USU Police Department for response.

4. The USUPD has a direct telephone line to the Logan City Public Safety Dispatch Center to expedite calls for fire or ambulance personnel.

5. Twenty-one emergency phones have been installed at various locations around campus to assist in the reporting of emergencies. Eight of the phones have been placed in the tunnels running under 400 North, one at each end of each tunnel. In addition to the twenty-one emergency phones, eight new emergency phones were just installed in the new parking structure on 700 East 600 North giving the University a total of twenty-nine emergency phones

CRIME AWARENESS AND PREVENTION PROGRAMS

Several crime prevention programs available to campus groups teach people ways to protect themselves and their property and encourage the immediate reporting of all crimes or suspicious incidents. These programs include the following:

1. Protection Seminars For Women - Utah State University has several programs offered by different departments that promote participant awareness of sex offenses:

- The USU Police offers the Rape Aggression Defense (R.A.D.) program on a scheduled basis. The class is also taught for one credit through the Physical Education Department.
- The USU Police offers rape prevention and awareness programs, self defense techniques classes and general self-protection awareness seminars.
- The office of Student Services offers a program through the Wellness Center which is run by the SAAVI Office (Sexual Assault and Anti Violence and Information). This program is the Acquaintance, Date Rape Education Prevention Program.
- The USU Housing and Residential Life Office offers similar programs in conjunction with the University Police and Student Services.

2. USUPD participates in an orientation for the resident assistants of all University residence halls.

3. At the beginning of each academic year the University student newspaper, The Statesman, publishes an article on the USUPD. This article advises students of the services provided by the department.

4. USUPD participates in the freshman orientation each fall semester. They also participate in the International Student Orientation program during the fall, spring and summer semesters. Additionally they participate in the SOAR (Student Orientation and Advising and Registration) program during the summer for incoming freshman or transfer students and their parents.

5. Timely reports are made available through The Statesman, the student operated USU Newspaper, available to all University employees each semester, advising students and staff of timely information regarding the safety and security of the campus.

6. USU security or police officers provide 24-hour walking escort to students or employees to campus destinations.

VIOLENCE IN THE WORKPLACE

Experts estimate that over 110,000 acts of workplace violence occur annually in the United States.

Clues to Watch For

Clues often come in the form of threats, which can be classified in three categories: direct, conditional, veiled.

- Direct threats might be articulated as: "I'm going to kill so-and-so."
- Conditional threats are tied to an action. "If I lose my job, then my reaction will be..."
- Veiled threats will prompt a manager to wonder what the employee is really saying. A worker might say, "I can see why somebody would want to come in here with a gun."

Reasons for the increase in workplace violence include:

- The sluggish economy
- A societal desensitization to violence and the availability of technologically advanced weapons
- Drug and alcohol problems
- Domestic problems which flare up in the workplace

Timing of Reactions

The timing of violence may not come right after an employee is terminated or disappointed by something at work. It might occur later when the person has lost his final appeal. Also, the violent person may wait for the right opportunity, like a lapse in security. As with domestic violence and stalking, the more you allow it to continue, the more powerful it becomes.

Employer Methods for Defusing the "Bomb"

- Extensive and thorough pre-employment screening
- Continual training for supervisory teams to help them detect early warning signs of emotional upset
- A "golden-rule" attitude in work, wherein employees feel a sense of reward and recognition for their achievements
- Educational programs aimed at teaching workers how to respond to conflict in personal situations

- Counseling services for employees and their families for either job or personal problems
- Proper security measures to protect the organization and its employees
- Counseling and stress debriefing in the aftermath of violence in the workplace
- Counseling at the time of employee termination

SEXUAL ASSAULT POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

Sexual assault is a growing concern on college and university campuses. We are fortunate at Utah State University to have a relatively low rate of sexual assault. However, one is too many and it is understood that many sexual assaults go unreported. In an effort to assist victims of sexual assault the following information is made available:

Procedures to Follow if You Become a Victim of a Sex Offense:

- Do not change clothes or shower.
- Seek medical attention if needed.
- Report the offense immediately to the police. If you live in a campus residence hall, your resident director or resident assistant can help you contact the proper authorities.
- If you do not want to contact the police, you may contact the USU SAAVI (Sexual Assault and Anti Violence Information) Office or CAPSA (Citizens Against Physical and Sexual Abuse), the Counseling Center, the Student Services Office, or Bear River Mental Health. These agencies can help you deal with the assault. Their phone numbers are listed at the end of this brochure.
- If you so desire you may request a change in your academic and living situation. The Student Services Office will assist you with needed changes.

Sexual assault is a criminal offense of varying degrees. Depending upon circumstances, a perpetrator of a sexual assault may be charged with crimes ranging from a class B misdemeanor to a first degree felony. The USU Police Department will vigorously work to prosecute anyone who commits a sexual assault.

University Disciplinary Actions Against Those Who Commit Sexual Assault

If a person is accused of sexual assault and the accusation appears to be valid, the accused person will be called into a conference with the Vice President for Student Services. If the accused admits to the allegations appropriate disciplinary actions will be imposed. If the accused denies the allegations a University Judicial Board will be convened. The accuser and the accused are entitled to the same opportunities to have others present during a disciplinary proceeding. It is the responsibility of the University Judicial Board to hear the facts of the case and determine the validity of the accusation. If it is determined that the accusation is valid the Board will determine the penalty. Both the accuser and the accused shall be informed of the outcome of any institutional disciplinary proceeding brought alleging a sex offense.

The sanctions that may be imposed include probation, suspension, or expulsion.

ALCOHOL AND DRUG POLICIES

Utah State University has a strong commitment to the well-being of its faculty, staff and students. USU policy supports a drug-free environment.

University regulations specifically prohibit the possessing, consuming or selling of alcoholic beverages on campus (including athletic events). University regulations also prohibit possessing, using or selling hallucinatory, narcotic or other controlled substance. Utah law prohibits the consumption of alcohol in any arena or stadium. Anyone found in violation of these regulations is subject to arrest.

The USUPD provides D.U.I. Seminars to acquaint the University population with the effects of alcohol in the human body as it relates to driving.

Utah State University maintains the Wellness Center to assist employees and students. This office has several programs including:

- an annual student orientation dealing with policies and the legal and health consequences of substance abuse
- a campus referral system provides assessment, education and/or referral for treatment
- a 10-hour Alcohol/Drug Education class
- an annual Alcohol and Drug Awareness Week
- educational workshops and/or presentations on alcohol or other drug-related issues upon request
- a Life Skills Center to teach life skills that prevent substance abuse through enhancing one's ability to function personally, socially, emotionally, educationally and economically

SECURITY OF AND ACCESS TO USU FACILITIES

The USUPD is responsible for securing more than 60 buildings on campus. Each building has a scheduled time to be secured. The department employs part-time, unarmed student security officers for this purpose. Security officers begin locking buildings at 6:00 p.m. each day. The last buildings are scheduled to be secured by 12:30 a.m. Lock-up times for some buildings may vary depending upon class schedules and other reservations.

Some University academic departments arrange for students to stay in buildings after hours. With departmental approval the student is issued a building pass which allows him or her to stay in the building after the normal lock-up time. When the building is checked by security officers at night, those students who have building passes are allowed to remain in the building. Those who do not have passes are required to leave. In addition, graduate students who have been issued keys to a building are allowed to remain in the building after hours.

Utah State University has established a well-defined key issuance and control policy. Only selected administrators are authorized to approve the issuance of keys to individuals within their assigned areas. The Director of the Public Safety must approve all master key requests. Periodic surveys and audits of campus departments are conducted to determine the status of keys issued to department personnel. It is against USU policy to duplicate any USU key.

The USUPD provides a service to individuals who need access to an area after hours. Individuals may be allowed into an area when prior written approval has been given by an appropriate dean, department head or instructor. In cases where written approval has not been received, a student may gain access if the responsible dean or department head calls the University Police Department and gives verbal approval. Under special circumstances an officer may escort an individual into an area to retrieve his or her personal property.

All residence halls are designated as private residences. Persons not authorized to be in a residence hall are subject to arrest for trespassing. All housing maintenance personnel wear name badges identifying them as housing workers. Maintenance personnel only enter rooms or apartments to respond to work orders for needed repairs requested by the residents or for identified emergencies.

All USU students and employees are issued USU identification cards and are encouraged to carry the cards while on campus.

SECURITY CONSIDERATIONS RELATED TO MAINTENANCE PROGRAMS

The Utah State University Physical Plant has a regular preventive maintenance program for the outside lighting system on campus. Periodic light surveys are completed of the entire campus. Lights that are out or in need of repair are taken care of in a timely manner. In addition, as USUPD security officers make their regular rounds and find lights out or other problems that need attention, they complete a work order to have the necessary repairs made.

Each spring trees and shrubbery around campus are trimmed to keep pathways throughout the campus as safe as possible.

CAMPUS CRIME STATISTICS

These statistics are compiled in accordance with definitions used in the Uniform Crime Reporting System of the Department of Justice and the FBI as modified by the Hate Crime Statistics Act. These statistics report the occurrence of crime on campus during the most recent year and the two preceding years. None of these reported crimes involved a hate crime.

HOUSING FACILITIES OF OFF-CAMPUS STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Because housing facilities of off-campus student organizations are not University property, the Logan City Police Department responds to all calls for service at these locations. The Logan City Police Department provides USUPD with reports of serious crimes that occur at these facilities. These reports are compiled and monitored by the USUPD and the office of the Vice President for Student Services.

CONTINUING EDUCATION CENTERS

Utah State University maintains several Education Centers throughout the state. These centers are located in the following cities:

Brigham City
Salt Lake City
Roosevelt

Ogden
Moab
Vernal

Tooele
Murray

None of the centers have reported crimes during the last three years which are required to be contained in this publication.
