Committee Reports:

FEC Report
Ruth Struyk briefly presented the Faculty Evaluation Committee Annual Report. She explained that they are exploring FEC’s in other universities, and find out how they conduct faculty evaluations, with the purpose of determining how best to conduct faculty evaluations at USU. Evaluations of distance education faculty, and online availability are some ideas being considered. Carol Kochan moved to place the FEC Report on the Consent Agenda. The motion, seconded by Dale Blahna, was passed.

Bookstore Committee Report
David Hansen, the Bookstore Director, gave the Bookstore Committee Report. A chair is still pending on this committee. The newly renovated sections of the Bookstore have been completed, and were completed on time, and on budget. The only other item the Bookstore Committee is working on is the backpack issue, where to allow students to place backpacks while in the textbook section of the store. Dale Blahna moved to place the Bookstore Committee Report on the Consent Agenda. The motion, seconded by Janis Boettinger, was passed.

LAC Report
Linda Wolcott introduced John Elsweiler to give the Libraries Advisory Council Annual Report. The Council is newly formed as of January 2003, and the chair is still pending. The only items discussed in meetings since then are circulation grace period, and email notices of due dates and overdue material. Janis Boettinger moved to place the LAC Report on the Consent Agenda. The motion, which was seconded by Bruce Miller, was passed.

EPC Business
Joyce Kinkead presented the EPC Business. The items EPC passed in their first meeting of the year was the combinations of two existing specializations in English, and the deadlines in program approval to make the scheduled bulletin. Bruce Miller moved to place EPC Business on the Consent Agenda. The motion, seconded by Vance Grange, was passed.

Key Issues and Action Items:

University Dashboard
Craig Petersen introduced the newly revised version University Dashboard. He compared the new version to the old version, and explained the improvements, and new elements added for easier understanding. He also reviewed the comparative data between USU and other peer and neighboring institutions. He also explained how to find the dashboard from the universities home page. Bruce Miller moved to place the University Dashboard presentation on the agenda as an information item. The motion, seconded by Dale Blahna, was passed.
Emergency Preparedness/GIS Project
Eric Hansen acquainted the Executive Committee with the original need and consequent creation of Emergency Response information manuals for the buildings on campus. He explained that the bulky manuals were very informative, but less effective when information was needed quickly in an emergency situation. The proposal is to transfer the emergency information from the manuals to electronic format, which can be accessed through a GIS program. This will allow emergency response teams to come better prepared to an emergency. It also helps comply with current regulations. Janis Boettinger moved to draft a resolution supporting the GIS Project, and have the report placed on the Consent Agenda as an action item. The motion, seconded by Bruce Miller, was passed.

Ombudsperson Proposal
Christine Hult defined then NFS Advance Grant as an effort to advance the status of women faculty in sciences and engineering. Efforts have been made in the past to change policy code to include ombudspersons into the colleges, and was passed, but when the consequent changes to the code were presented, the code changes were voted down. The need for Ombudspersons is to ensure due process for the issues being discussed, that procedures are being followed properly, and that cases will be heard fairly, particularly in cases presented by women. Discussions commenced concerning whether or not to send the proposal to the Faculty Senate, and Bruce Miller suggested that it would most likely be sent to PRPC anyway. Janis Boettinger moved to send the Ombudsperson Proposal back to PRPC for consideration of language changes to the previously failed code changes of three years ago. The motion, seconded by Bruce Miller, was passed.

Resolution on Funding Priorities for Higher Education
Kevin Kesler passed out the recent resolution presented by the Utah Council of Faculty Senate Leaders, to support the budget proposal of the Board of Regents giving more funding to Utah's State Colleges and Universities. It was decided that some minor grammatical and clerical changes were needed to the resolution, but that the resolution was accepted. John DeVibiss would present the proposal to the Faculty Senate. Bruce Miller moved to place the proposal on the agenda as an action item. The motion, seconded by Carol Kochan, was passed.

University Business
Stan Albrecht gave the University Business. The USU issues presented to the Board of Regents meeting, were well received, including the budget presentation, the library and other building presentation. The President is meeting with all the legislators personally to present our budget to them, with the most important issues being salary compensation, health benefits, and department operating budgets. Administration is not recommending lifting the program moratorium. The Department Heads Terms issue is continuing to be negotiated, and proposal drafts are continuing to be revised. Tom Kent mentioned that most of their peer institutions have instituted terms for department heads, and are having positive experiences with it, even though there were a few minor political issues.

New Business
Kevin asked for suggestions for topics for the upcoming Faculty Forum. Suggested topics were: Department Heads Terms, Ombudspersons, and faculty involvement in other institutions.

Adjourn:
Kevin Kesler called for adjournment. The meeting adjourned at 4:58 pm.
