This course seeks to understand the causes of genocide, with Cambodia as the key case for analysis. Students will witness first-hand the Khmer Rouge killing fields and hear from survivors of genocide. They will also come to understand the continued legacy of genocide in the country and explore how a people and country move on from such an experience. In Cambodia, students will work with local villagers on a number of development projects. In conjunction with Youthlinc, we will be working with Sustainable Cambodia, a NGO that works with rural villages to help them achieve sustainability and self-sufficiency.

SCHEDULE AND FEES

YOUTHLINC DEADLINES
Dec 15: $500
Jan 15: $999
Feb 15: $550
March 15: $550

USU DEADLINES
By University deadline: Tuition

PROGRAM LEADERS
- Dr. Shannon Peterson, Director of Global Programming, Institute of Government and Politics

VISIT: the United Nations Development Program or the United Nations High Commission on Human Rights

LEARN: about the effects of war and genocide still affecting Cambodia

TOUR: Killing Fields, S21 Prison and Document Center of Cambodia

EARN: 3 credits of your choice in POLS 4980, CMST 5000, SOC 4800, or ANTH 4800

WORK: with students from Royal University of Phnom Penh

For more information:
studyabroad@usu.edu
shannon.peterson@usu.edu
rebekah@youthlinc.org