Informal Outline

Three Major Psychological Approaches to Personality

1. Dynamic (also called psychoanalytic)

– Characteristics

Person continually in conflict; opposing forces
Source of forces = psychic apparatus

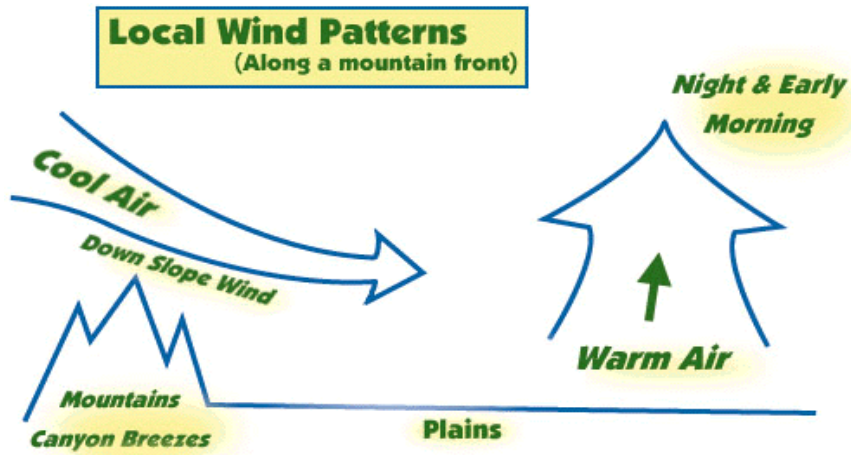

• Psychic apparatus

- Id: instinctual drives possessed at birth such as hunger, thirst, sex and aggression most important drives (per Freud)
- Ego: reconciles demands of id with "real" world moderates and guides basic instincts in line with society's norms provides capacity for delayed gratification
- Superego: conscience ("internalized parent") shaped by social forces such as school, church, close acquaintances

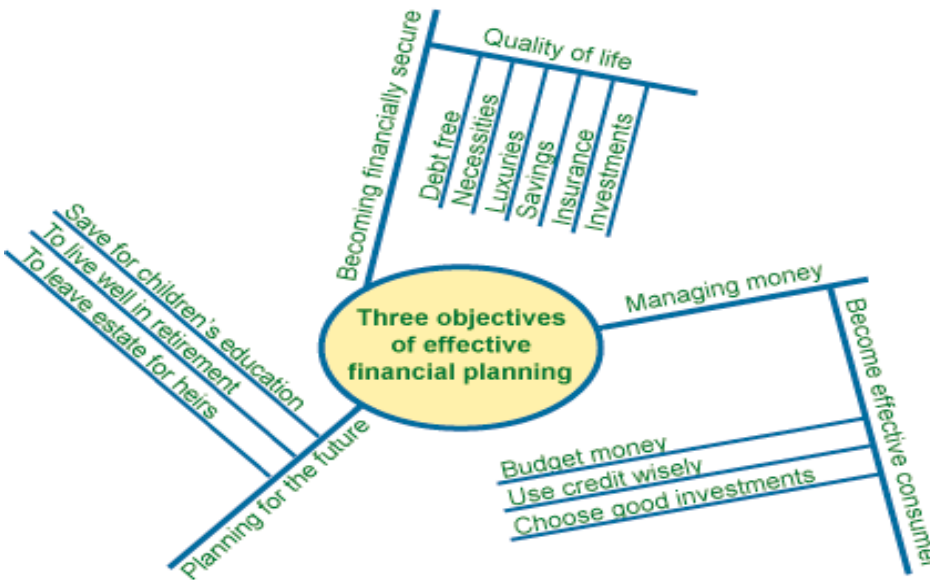

2. Humanistic

3. Social learning
