Summer Activity Guide 2026

Sixty-four percent of children under age 18 in Utah have all parents in the workforce. That means many families are balancing work schedules while children are home during the summer months. For school-age children especially, summer can bring long days without structure. While some older youth may be ready for increased independence, younger children left alone for extended periods can face risks to their safety, well-being, and emotional health. In general, children under age 12 benefit from consistent adult supervision or participation in organized summer activities.

Summer programs are a wonderful way for children to stay active, engaged, and connected while school is out. When children participate in structured summer activities, they build physical health, strengthen social skills, support emotional well-being, and develop valuable life skills — all while having fun!

Child Care Resource Agency recognizes how important safe and enriching summer opportunities are for families. We hope this guide helps you explore local options and find activities that best match your child's interests and your family's needs.

Please note that this is not a comprehensive list, although we have made every effort to include as many programs in the area as possible. Information is subject to change, so we encourage you to contact programs directly to confirm current details, including cost, hours of operation, and enrollment availability.

If you have questions or need additional support, we are here to help!

Call us at (435) 797-1552, email childcare.help@usu.edu, or visit our website at www.childcarehelp.usu.edu for more information.

We wish you and a safe, fun, and memorable summer! ❀ ❀

LOOKING FOR CHILD CARE? STEPS TO CHOOSING CHILD CARE

WHY QUALITY MATTERS

90% of all brain development takes place in the early years. Research shows that poor quality environments have a detrimental effect on children

- Where will my child be sleeping?
- What spaces are accessible to the child, including outdoor and dining areas?
- Is hand washing practiced by both adults and children?
- Is the play space well-arranged, and are there ample resources available for use?
- Are the toys and materials within easy reach for the child?
- What strategies for positive behavior and guidance implemented?

ASK

LOOK

- Do they engage in conversations with the children ?
- Do they read to the children?
- Are they welcoming & warm?

COUNT 123

How many children does each adult look after? It's good to know how much personal attention your child will receive during the day. Often, fewer children per adult can mean more care for your child. ✨

How many children are there in the group or class? Smaller groups can be better for learning and playing.

ASK ? ? ?

What kind of training, education, and experience do the caregivers have? Caregivers who have special training or degrees in working with children might be more skilled in helping your child learn. How long have the caregivers been working at this program? It's good to know their experience level. ✨
