Hello,

Thank you for [your email/meeting with me/talking to me]. I recognize that it can be difficult to share experiences of sexual misconduct with others and so I appreciate you telling me.

I am not a designated confidential resource, but I will keep the information you shared about sexual misconduct private. I will not share the information with the university, or with the USU Title IX Coordinator, without your written consent. The information you shared with me will not initiate University action.

If you would like me to report the information you shared about sexual misconduct to the USU Title IX Coordinator on your behalf, please let me know.

Since I am not required to report what you shared with me to the USU Title IX Coordinator, I want you to know about all of the support and reporting resources available to you at Utah State University.

1. USU’s designated confidential resources provide advocacy and therapy services:
   • Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS); and
   • Sexual Assault and Anti-Violence Information Office (SAAVI).

2. If you need medical attention, you can visit the Student Health & Wellness Center.

3. You can request supportive measures from the Office of Equity, which are accommodations that can address your safety and well-being and allow you to continue to be a student and/or employee at USU.

4. You can make a report to:
   • The USU Title IX Coordinator at equity.usu.edu/report; and
   • USU Police.

More information about these resources is available at sexualrespect.usu.edu.

If you need support contacting these resources, or if you would like me to help you make a report to the USU Title IX Coordinator or USU Police, please let me know.

If you have questions about these follow-up email templates or supporting individuals who have disclosed sexual misconduct to you, please contact the USU Title IX Coordinator by calling 435-797-1266, visiting Old Main 161 in Logan, or via email at titleix@usu.edu.
Hello,

Thank you for [your email/meeting with me/talking to me]. I recognize that it can be difficult to share experiences of sexual misconduct with others and so I appreciate you telling me.

I am not a designated confidential resource, but I will keep the information you shared about sexual misconduct private. I will not share the information with the university, or with the USU Title IX Coordinator, without your written consent. The information you shared with me will not initiate University action.

If you would like me to report the information you shared about sexual misconduct to the USU Title IX Coordinator on your behalf, please let me know.

Since I am not required to report what you shared with me to the USU Title IX Coordinator, I want you to know about all of the support and reporting resources available to you at Utah State University.

1. USU’s designated confidential resources provide advocacy and therapy services:
   • Sexual Assault and Anti-Violence Information Office (SAAVI) (available remotely throughout the state); and
   • USU Eastern Student Counseling Office.

2. If you need medical attention, you can call Danielle Howa-Pendergrass at 435-637-0313 or visit usueastern.edu/health-services to schedule an appointment.

3. You can request supportive measures from the Office of Equity, which are accommodations that can address your safety and well-being and allow you to continue to be a student and/or employee at USU.

4. You can make a report to:
   • The USU Title IX Coordinator at equity.usu.edu/report; and
   • USU Police.

More information about these resources is available at sexualrespect.usu.edu.

If you need support contacting these resources, or if you would like me to help you make a report to the USU Title IX Coordinator or USU Police, please let me know.
Hello,

Thank you for [your email/meeting with me/talking to me]. I recognize that it can be difficult to share experiences of sexual misconduct with others and so I appreciate you telling me.

I am not a designated confidential resource, but I will keep the information you shared about sexual misconduct private. I will not share the information with the university, or with the USU Title IX Coordinator, without your written consent. The information you shared with me will not initiate University action.

If you would like me to report the information you shared about sexual misconduct to the USU Title IX Coordinator on your behalf, please let me know.

Since I am not required to report what you shared with me to the USU Title IX Coordinator, I want you to know about all of the support and reporting resources available to you at Utah State University.

1. USU’s designated confidential resources provide advocacy and therapy services:
   - Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) (available in-person on Brigham City, Salt Lake, and Tooele campuses, as well as remotely throughout the state); and
   - Sexual Assault and Anti-Violence Information Office (SAAVI) (available remotely throughout the state).

2. If you need medical attention, visit usu.edu/sexual-respect/resources to learn about the services in your area.

3. You can request supportive measures from the Office of Equity, which are accommodations that can address your safety and well-being and allow you to continue to be a student and/or employee at USU.

4. You can make a report to:
   - The USU Title IX Coordinator at equity.usu.edu/report; and
   - Your local police department.

More information about these resources is available at sexualrespect.usu.edu.

If you need support contacting these resources, or if you would like me to help you make a report to the USU Title IX Coordinator, please let me know.