TAXATION

IRC Section 117(d) (Qualified Tuition Remission Programs). Tuition benefits provided to employees, spouses and dependents may be excluded from taxable income. There is no dollar limit on the amount that may be excluded. However, under Section 117(d), graduate level courses are not excludable (unless the student is working as a teaching or research assistant for the University).

NOTE: The Internal Revenue Code (IRC) provides rules that may be used to determine whether a tuition benefit is taxable. If either of the provisions applies, the tuition will be a tax-free benefit.

- IRC Section 127 (Educational Assistance Programs). The Utah State University Employee Educational Assistance Program qualifies as an Educational Assistance Program. Section 127 applies to employees only. The maximum amount that may be excluded under Section 127 in any year is $5,250. The Section 127 exclusion applies generally to undergraduate and graduate tuition benefits except for classes involving sports, games, or hobbies which are neither job-related nor required for a degree.
- IRC Section 117(d) (Qualified Tuition Reduction Programs). Tuition benefits provided to employees, spouses and dependents may be excluded from taxable income. The Section 117(d) rules are less restrictive than those under Section 127 in that there is no dollar limit on the amount that may be excluded. However, under Section 117(d), graduate level courses are not excludable (unless the student is working as a teaching or research assistant for the University.)
