

MOUNTAIN WEST CENTER FOR REGIONAL STUDIES GRADUATE STUDENT RESEARCH GRANTS PROGRAM

Deadline for Submissions: Grant programs have a rolling deadline; however, the grant cycle runs from July 1 to June 30 of each year with a limited amount of funds. When the allotted funds for the year have been awarded, no more grants will be available until the following July 1.

PURPOSE OF THE PROGRAM

The Mountain West Center for Regional Studies (MWC) Graduate Student Research Grants Program is designed to foster research, writing and creative production in and about the Intermountain West. Successful grants applications must demonstrate how the research fits with the Mountain West Center's mission of increasing our understanding of the Interior West, its land, history, and cultural groups.

The MWC Graduate Student Research Program will fund grant requests up to $1,000 on a competitive basis for full-time graduate students matriculated in a USU CHaSS Masters or PhD program. Funds are awarded in support of research or creative activities leading to the completion of a thesis or dissertation. These grants are not intended to fund meeting attendance, tuition, or salary. Graduate students are eligible for one MWC Research Grant during their degree program. Students must be enrolled for at least 6 credit hours during the semester the funds are expended.

Proposals are due by electronic submission (mwc@usu.edu) and should be written to the attention of MWC Director Molly Cannon.

PROPOSAL REQUIREMENTS

1. The MWC Small Grant Cover Sheet (available on website: www.mountainwest.usu.edu). This may be filled out electronically and then printed in order to include the endorsement signatures of both the applicant's graduate committee chair and department head.
2. The Proposal Narrative (available on website: www.mountainwest.usu.edu)
Answer all questions on the proposal narrative document.
3. Abbreviated curriculum vita (up to 2 pages) that includes: 1) name, date, and educational background; 2) professional positions, including years; 3) a list of publications, presentations, or other professional products most relevant to the proposed research/project; 4) a list of other publications, presentations or professional products; 5) a list of relevant graduate courses taken.
4. A budget plan, using the budget template (available on website: www.mountainwest.usu.edu)
