

POLICY MANUAL

GENERAL

Number 586

Subject: Open Access to Scholarly Articles

Applies To: University Employees

Revision Effective Date: August 31, 2016

Date of Origin: May 30, 2012

586.1 POLICY

In harmony with the institutional mission of serving the public through learning, discovery, and engagement, Utah State University is committed to the widest dissemination of employees' scholarly articles, including utilizing new technologies to facilitate the open sharing of their scholarly articles.

Additionally, the University recognizes that United States copyright law, in conformance with its constitutional foundation, grants special and exclusive, but limited rights to authors as an incentive to create and distribute their works. These rights are limited to insure that they do not impose an undue obstacle to education and the free exchange of ideas.

586.3 DEFINITIONS

Institutional Repository (IR) - is an online resource for collecting, preserving, and disseminating the intellectual output of an institution. It also provides online journal and conference hosting as well as access to personal web pages.

Open Access -The open dissemination of scholarly articles, without price barriers, through the Internet, as a means to reach an author's widest possible audience.

Scholarly Articles – Articles that describe the fruits of a scholar’s research that he/she gives to the world for the sake of inquiry and knowledge without the expectation of payment.

586.4 PROVISIONS

4.1 Rights and Waivers

All employees during their employment with the University grant to the University a nonexclusive license to exercise any and all rights under copyright relating to each of their scholarly articles, in any medium, provided that the articles are not sold for profit, and to authorize others to do the same. These articles will also be deposited in the University’s Open Access Institutional Repository to ensure the widest possible dissemination. The nonexclusive license will be waived at the sole discretion of the author, except in cases where a funder mandate requires article deposit, and will be administered on behalf of the Provost’s Office by the Library.
