Freddy Deeb is another poker professional that came to United States to get an education and ended up becoming a force to be reckoned with in the world of poker. Deeb came to Utah to attend Utah State University at age 19. His was born in Beirut on November 27, 1955. While attending school he lost touch with his parents due to the civil war that broke out in Lebanon. Freddy's parents had been sending him money for school before that but it suddenly stopped and Deeb turned to gambling to make ends meet. Deeb did this, as he could not work as he was on a student visa. Deeb's circumstance forced him to quit school just 12 credits short of his degree in Mechanical Engineering. Since Freddy was on a student visa, he could not legally work so he headed to Reno, Nevada where he slowly built up his modest stake in low stakes poker games. His ability to read other players was developed in these games as well as his ability to play winning poker. From this modest start as a full time poker player he has winnings of over five million dollars, as of 2007

Freddy Deeb is one of the five pros that have won a WSOP event and a WPT event. Deeb states that his greatest satisfaction playing poker was his win in the WSOP 2007 HORSE event, which has a buy-in of $50,000 and was worth over 2.2 million dollars to him. Deeb's take on winning this event is the fact that the players who enter this WSOP event are the best in the world, which makes this tournament the hardest one to win.

His record so far in WSOP play is two wins and 23 in the money finishes. Deeb's WPT record is one win, two final tables and five in the money finishes. This record of his play easily makes his a player to respect in any tournament he enters.
